General marking principles for National 5 ESOL Writing

This information is provided to help you understand the general principles you must apply when marking candidate responses to questions in this paper. These principles must be read in conjunction with the specific marking instructions, which identify the key features required in candidate responses.

- (a) Marks for each candidate response must always be assigned in line with these general marking principles and the specific marking instructions for the relevant question.
- (b) Marking should always be positive. This means that, for each candidate response, marks are accumulated for the demonstration of relevant skills, knowledge and understanding: they are not deducted from a maximum on the basis of errors or omissions.
- (c) In addition, markers should use their professional judgement, subject knowledge and experience, and understanding to mark candidate responses.

For each piece of writing, with reference to content and organisation, vocabulary and spelling, and grammar and punctuation, assess the overall quality of the response and allocate it a mark within the appropriate range.

Check that all required content has been addressed.

A script can be awarded full marks yet still contain a number of basic slips and errors of grammar, spelling and punctuation, etc.

If answers are written in capitals, use legibility as a criterion.

- If the piece of writing falls within the top range, use your professional judgement in a holistic way to apply a mark between 13 and 15
- The 'intended reader' is the reader nominated or intended by the question (for example a friend, a manager, a teacher)

Marking instructions for each question

Content and organisation	Vocabulary and spelling	Grammar and punctuation	Marks
Fully achieves task with well-developed support for each point made. Writing is coherent and cohesive with a very positive impact on the reader. Style and layout are wholly appropriate for intended reader.
